BOSTON SHOWCASE COMPANY

Restaurant & Foodservice Equipment Layout & Design

A Family Business

In 1913, Max Starr immigrated to the United States and started Boston Showcase Company in Roxbury. More than one hundred years later, the third and fourth generations of the Starr family still own and operate the business and we consider all of our 40-plus employees part of our extended family. One of the advantages to our tightly run organization is there are no levels of bureaucracy, both for employees of the company and for you, the customer. Our commitment to service is what sets us apart!

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What do I need to provide to initiate a preliminary design?

To start the design, we prefer to have spatial dimensions for the entire facility in an electronic file format (AutoCAD preferred or PDF with dimensions). In addition, owners should have a menu concept, which will help when selecting equipment.

What type of projects do you work on?

We welcome all types of equipment layout and design projects. Everything from a coffee kiosk to a 500-bed assisted living facility to a swanky downtown restaurant is in our wheelhouse.

Can I make changes to the design after I've signed the equipment contract?

Yes, we always expect some changes to be made and will review the final list several times with you. Once standard items have shipped from the factory or production of fabricated items has begun, there may be fees incurred.

What isn't included in the equipment layout and design?

The equipment layout and design isn't intended to replace architectural and engineering plans that are required by any city or town. Therefore, it doesn't include architectural drawings and stamps, ADA compliance verification, emergency exit calculations, HVAC plans, construction documents, site condition plans, restaurant or foodservice permits.

Can I incorporate existing equipment into the design?

Absolutely! We're happy to incorporate existing equipment or equipment purchased elsewhere into the layout. We'll include icons on plans, note the items and list them as Not in Contract.

What if I choose to buy equipment elsewhere after the preliminary design is completed?

While our goal is to provide the equipment package after a preliminary design is complete, you may choose to purchase all or part of the equipment package elsewhere. If you do though, we'll hang onto the deposit for our design/consultation services rendered.
